YET IN DOUBT.

Sera'or Chandler Proving Himself an Active Minority.

Insists That Collector of Port Must Go to a Resident of This City.

A dispatch to the Manchester Union
from Washington reads as follows:

At present a hot fight is going on over the collection of the port of Portsmouth.

Three days ago the newspapers announced that Senator Chandler had seen

the president on the subject of bimetallic

but it developed that at that time he

filed a long protest with the president

against the appointment of any man to the collection who is not a resident of Portsmouth, and this he endorsed in a vigorous letter. Yes, today Senator Gal-ler and Representatives Sullivan and Clark called on the president in behalf of the appointment of Col. R. N. Elwell of Exeter. I have questioned these gentlemen concerning their visit, but they declined to talk, except to say that the people of Portsmouth seemed to be laboring under a misapprehension which they assumed that the collectorship belonged to that city. It is a state office, said they,

Portsmouth having nothing more to do with it than any other part of the state.

They say that it is a remarkable circumstance that Col. James A. Wood could be imported into Portsmouth from a little town in Sullivan county, more than a hundred miles away, without comment or protest, while Col. Elwell's appointment

from a town in the same county as Portsmouth and only fourteen miles away,

seems to have excited so much opposition.

One of the delegation said that it was simply a movement organized by a few men, not a matter that the people of Portsmouth really cared a rap about.

Another member of the delegation remarked that he greatly regretted that the appointment of Col. Woods was permitted to be made, as had Senator Chandler's opposition to Col. Elwell been known, the collection of internal revenue would very likely to have been given to some other person than the present incumbent.

On the whole the situation is an interesting one, the outcome of which will be closely watched by the people of the state.

Death of a Former Portsmouth Boy

The following from the Louisville Courier of Jan. 12, on the death of a former popular Portsmouth young man will be read with interest:

Joseph S. Odiorne, the well known business and club man, died shortly after 1

o'clock this morning, at his apartments,

637 Third Avenue. He was stricken last Wednesday with pneumonia and was comelled to take to his bed. The dread disease made rapid headway, and by Sunday

his physicians saw that the chances for his recovery were but slight. Prior to yesterday he had been unconscious for two days and was unable to recognize those at his bedside. For a few short intervals yesterday he regained consciousness, but was unable to speak. When the end came he was surrounded by a number of his best friends.

There was no better known or better

man in Louisville than Joe Odiorne, and his friends were legion. He was a big-hearted, genial fellow who had a pleasant word for everybody he met. He was possessed of the rare faculty of putting everyone with whom he came in contact in the happiest frame of mind.

Mr. Odiorne was born in Portsmouth,

N.-W. Hampshire, just thirty-nine years ago. He came to this city in 1867, and at once took a prominent position, both in the social and business world. He came here to accept a position with the A. & L., and

shortly after his arrival was a general passenger agent. He held this position for several years, and then entered the insurance business, and at the time of his death was a member of the firm of Odiorne & Muller, his partner being Mr.

Willis Muller. The company became the general agency here of the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, and of the Standard Life and Accident Company of Detroit. He held the position of secretary of the Penobscot Club for several years, but declined re-election at the last annual meeting. He was one of the club's most genial spirits, and was a welcome

addition to any crowd that gathered.

Mr. Odiorne's nearest relative was his wife, Mrs. George F. Evans, wife of the well known railroad man, who lived here

until several years ago, when he went to Manchester, N. H., where they have since made their home. Mr. and Mrs. Evans are now living in Stamford, Conn.

A YOUNG MURDERER.

Five-Year-Old Child Killed by a Youth
In Philadelphia.

HANGLED BODY FOUND IN A CREEK.

Skull Crushed and Knife Thrus

Philadelphia, Jan. 11.—The body of 5-year-old Percy Lockyear, who is believed to have been murdered Friday night by Samuel Henderson, 15 years, was found in the bottom of Reddie's creek, Sixteenth and Catherine streets, and there seems little doubt in the minds of the police that Henderson is guilty of the crime. He is now locked in a cell at police headquarters.

The body of the child when found was weighted by two heavy stones, one about his neck and the other around his ankles. His skull was crushed in and there was a knife thrust just above the heart and singular wounds on his breast, side and forehead, while on one side of his face was a long cut extending from below the eye to the chin.

Percy did not return home Friday evening; the parents notified the police and an unsuccessful search for him was made. Saturday it was learned that Henderson had been seen in the woods with the child. Henderson, on being questioned, told different stories, but finally said that while he was whittling a stick with a large knife, Percy accidentally fell against the blade, which entered deeply into his breast. The blood spurted from the wound and the child fell dead. Henderson said he threw the body into a creek. He led the searchers to where the boy's hat and coat were hidden and also pointed out the place in the creek where he had thrown the body.

When shown the mutilated body of the child, the prisoner admitted that he was responsible for the cuts, but he still persisted that it was an accident. The police believe that it was a planned murder, in which the guilty one also purposed ending the life of another boy, Willie Addis, 5 years old. Henderson, it is said, has been reading trashy novels of the wild western stamp, and has shown a desire to emulate the "hero" of those tales. The police assert that Henderson accompanied Lockyear and Addison to the woods, but instead of any accident happening to either, he took both children to a tree. Addison brook away and ran home. It was then, it is said, that young Lockyear's death was accomplished. Dr. Morton, the coroner's physician, who examined the thrust above the heart, said that it caused the death of the little fellow.

A fact that has come out in connecting with Henderson's alleged crime is that his father, John D. Henderson, was on trial in October, 1892, charged with killing a man named Christopher Nelson. The killing was the outcome of a quarrel. He escaped conviction.

Mr. Giddes of Helena, Mont., will feel sorry old and feeble when he gets through serving that sentence of 90 years.

The reasons advanced by Speaker Marion of the Ohio house for his opposition to Mr. Hanna are now of no consequence.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Foraker thoughtfully, "that there is not much to say." Very comprehensively put, senator.

Cleveland people are waiting patiently to see Mayor McKisson jump into the river, as he promised to do if Ilaues was elected.

Buring a negro at the stake is one thing, and, as the settlers down Oklahoma way have discovered, burning an Indian is another thing.

Still, if the starving Cubans are to be fed the United States must continue to do the feeding. The Spaniards cannot get meat enough to the Cubans.

Mr. Grosvenor will not be satisfied to modify the civil service law. He proposes to destroy it "root and branch." At last accounts the law was "still there," with Mr. Grosvenor shaking an impotent fist at it.

The president of the Santa Fe Railway company offers to lease to the Kansas Populists a passenger train for one year at the rate of $1 per train-mile (the actual cost of operation) in order that their theories regarding low passenger rates may be put to a practical test. The Pops should either put up or shut up.

A Brave Turk.
I never in my life saw a man with such a magnificent physique. He was very modest, spoke in a low, proportionate voice, and was of commanding physical strength. A few days before I met him he had been the hero of a fact, about which all the troops in Nish were still talking. It seemed that Abdul Karim Pasha, the commander in chief, while inspecting the troops one morning, casually expressed a wish that he could capture a Serbian prisoner from the Serbian lines. Ahmed Bey, who overheard the remark, rode up and, saluting, asked to be permitted to get the commander a prisoner. Abdul Karim wonderingly gave the required permission, and Ahmed Bey, without another word, wheeled his charger, dashed the spurs into his steaks, and galloped off in front of the surprised detachment straight for the nearest Serbian outpost. As he approached, the lines half a dozen rifles cracked, and Ahmed Bey, riding his steed, galloped deliberately marked out one sentinel on his progress. The sentry emptied his rifle, and the audacious horseman in vain, and late, started to run. Ahmed Bey stepped down upon him like a sparrow alighted upon a larch-leaf, and bending down upon the man by the collar in an iron grip, and flung him without an effort from the saddle in front of him. Then he leaped back again, bending over his steed's neck as the bullets whistled past him, and delivered his rider to the Turkish commander amid delighted shouts of the whole detachment.

men had passed a couple of hours in the house of commons and one had been talking all the time. "I can't stand this any longer," said the first. "I can't stand it," said the second, a smile on the tears streaming down his face. "I can't stand it any longer," said the third, and so on. The tears streamed down his face continuously in the house since 1885, died Sunday night. In addition to being the oldest member of the house, he was father of the English bar, for he was was "eaten" at Lincoln's Inn in 1827. Mr. Gladstone, seven years the junior of Mr. Villiers, entered parliament two years before him, but while the service of Mr. Villiers had been continuous, that of Mr. Gladstone was broken when he retired from the house of commons. Mr. Villiers was returned for Wolverhampton three years after the passing of the great reform act and the last parliament of William IV.

Besides being the oldest member of parliament, he was the oldest surviving parliamentary candidate. It was in 1826, when George IV was king and Victoria was a young child, that he traveled down to Yorkshire from London and contested Kingston-Upon-Hull, under the reform banner of Cannoning, though unsuccessfully. After his return for Wolverhampton he identified himself with the Liberal movement, and in 1853 was appointed judge advocate general. Subsequently he was president of the poor law board, and he became a member of Lord Palmerston's second administration in 1855.

As an independent Liberal he was one of the most able and eloquent leaders of the anti-corn law agitation, and to the triumph of the cause he earned speeches and persistent motions in parliament contributed. In the session of 1865 he introduced a very important measure in connection with the poor law administration, the union, chargeability bill which became law. In 1879 his constituents at Wolverhampton unveiled a marble statue of Mr. Villiers, when speeches in eulogy of his public services in connection with the anti-corn law movement were delivered by Earl Granville and Sir Robert Peel.

OBITUARY.

Patent Commissioner Butterworth and Legan Carlisle Among the Dead.

Thomasville, Ga., Jan. 17.—Benjamin Butterworth, United States commissioner of patents, who had been ill several weeks, died at 3:15 Sunday afternoon. His wife and children were at his bedside. He came here to recuperate from an attack of pneumonia and recovered rapidly until two weeks ago, when he suffered from dramatic convulsions. From that relapse he never fully recovered.

When shown the mutilated body of the child, the prisoner admitted that he was responsible for the cuts, but he still persisted that it was an accident. The police believe that it was a planned murder, in which the guilty one also purposed ending the life of another boy, Willie Addis, 5 years old. Henderson, it is said, has been reading trashy novels of the wild western stamp, and has shown a desire to emulate the "hero" of those tales. CRITICAL CONDITION.

Delayed Account of the Disturbances in Havana Last Week.

Havana, Cuba, K. Y. West, Fla., Jan. 15. (Delayed in transit—con't)—Although outwardly order is restored here, great excitement continues, and unless the newspaper exercise, under the press censorship, great pride in a general revolt is probable with much bloodshed, because in such an event the army and volunteers would fracture. General Blance's position is most difficult because his mild methods of warfare displease him to use energy with a mob. The rioters intend going to the palace in a pacific manner to request General Blance to release Jesus Trillo, a prominent attorney, who has been unjustly charged by political intrigues with fomenting mob violence.

He was commissioner of patents first during the administration of Garfield and Arthur, and his record made him and subsequently had great weight with President McKinley.

LOGAN CARLISLE DEAD.

New York, Jan. 17.—Logan Carlisle, chief clerk of the treasury department during the last Cleveland administration, died suddenly Sunday at the home of his father, John G. Carlisle, ex-secretary of the treasury. He had been in poor health for more than a year, and recently had returned from a fruitless search for relief at Hot Springs. Perhaps he was forced to take to bed, but his condition was not considered alarming until Sunday afternoon. The cause of death is given as heart failure.

He was born in Covington, Ky., in 1860 and was graduated from the university of Virginia. He practiced law in Kentucky and later removed to Wichita, Kan. He was active in politics, especially in the campaign of 1892. He acted as his father's private secretary when the latter was secretary of the treasury, and was appointed chief clerk in the department in March, 1893.

ADVOCATE OF LYNCHING.

Boston, Jan. 17.—Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore spoke last night before a large audience in the Tremont theatre on "Civil and Religious Liberty." The address was at the invitation of a number of Irish-American societies, and Charles Elliot Norton of Harvard university presided. The interesting portion of Mr. Bonaparte's remarks was that in which he advocated lynching. He said that the advantages of lynching had been very much underestimated, and that the system had done much to deter crime of a certain character in the south. Lynching is caused by a primitively recognized system, of course, as a wrong against society. Judge Lynch may make mistakes, but it is not often. A word of error is not sufficient to save a criminal among lynchers.

MINISTER'S NEW SCHEME.

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 17.—Rev. F. S. Stoddard, D. D., the rector of St. John's Episcopal church, has decided to begin giving dancing lessons in the church building this week. The class will meet Thursday night. The price for each lesson will be 12 cents. The members of the class will be given a reception or public dance at the end of the course. He announced that the class will be divided as to sex, and will be limited to 10 members. A dancing instructor has been engaged. Dr. Stoddard says he expects to meet criticism, but declares that, however severe, it will not deter him. He considers dancing not only harmless, but a necessary diversion, and believes that every person should be taught to dance.

Wednesday and Thursday nights the theatres and cafes were closed, and the military band did not play at Central Park as usual. When the newspaper offices were being attacked General Weyler's friends to use their influence to calm the rioters. They replied that they ignored the outbreak, but did not know the leaders of the riot. They offered to do everything in their power to calm the agitation, but pointedly suggested that General Arias should try to calm himself also, as he was "increasing the disturbances by his impudent and insulting language."

BUSY LIFE ENDED.

Death of the Father of the English House of Commons.

London, Jan. 17.—Hon. Charles Pether Williams, member of parliament for South Wolverhampton and known as the "father of the house of commons," died Sunday night. In addition to being the oldest member of the house, he was father of the English bar, for he was

LOOKS LIKE MURDER.

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 17.—The authorities are investigating the death of Joseph Raeside, horse trainer, whose mangled corpse was found beside the railroad track at Shell Mound, there being a strong suspicion that he was murdered and his body placed upon the track for the purpose of destroying all traces of the crime. Thursday last Raeside won $300 on Riccardo and cashed his tickets before going to supper. After supper he left his boarding house, and nothing more was seen of him until his corpse was discovered next morning with only a few pieces of silver in his pockets. It is the theory of the police that Raeside was killed and robbed by track touts who knew of his winnings.

DISORDERLY STUDENTS.

Paris, Jan. 17.—Many bands of students paraded the streets yesterday, shouting perpetually "Death to the Jews" and the like. In several cases safe windows were smashed, and the windows of a house mistaken for Zola's was broken. The police finally dispersed the rioters and made many arrests.

Louise Michel and Sebastian Faure addressed a socialist meeting and denounced the secrecy attending the trial of Count Esterhazy. There were shouts of "Down with Drumont" and "Down with Rochefort," but there was no further disorder.

FATHER AND SON MET.

New York, Jan. 17.—After an interview between General William Booth of the Salvation army and Commander Ballington Booth of the Volunteers of America Sunday, the following statement was given out by those who witnessed the interview: "General William Booth and Commander Ballington Booth, yesterday at the Windsor hotel, met in the presence of Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong and Rev. Charles Cuthbert Hall. The interview was purely as between father and son. Nothing transpired calculating to lead to any amalgamation of the two movements. It was agreed that all public controversy in the press or otherwise between the two movements should, as far as possible, come to an end."

CASINO DESTROYED.

Portland, Me., Jan. 17.—The Casino at Willard Beach-South Portland, the property of the Portland and Cape Elizabeth street railway, was destroyed by fire last night. A pavilion and restaurant, the property of C. J. Willard, was also burned. The Casino was built in the spring of 1896 and cost $31,000. It was insured for $25,000. Willard's loss was $4500, with $2000 insurance.

FOURTEEN WEEKS DYING.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 17.—Attorney J. C. Martin on Oct. 9 shot George McMillan dead in this city. The bullet struck the vertebrae of the neck and cut the spinal cord in two. Sunday, after being mortally wounded 12 weeks, McMillan died, and Martin, who had been indicted for shooting to kill, surrendered to the sheriff. Today an attempt will be made to indict him for murder. McMillan formerly lived here, but until recently lived in Colorado. The quarrel that caused the shooting was over a will.

DUTIE THE WRONG MAN.

Oklahoma, T. T., Jan. 17.—In a row Sunday, Fred Jones, a bar-keeper, shot Chief of Police C. W. Jackson through the thigh. As he fell Jackson fired at Jones, but missed him and hit Bishop Armstrong, a deputy sheriff, inflicting a fatal wound. Jones is a brother of Jim Jones, the city marshal who was killed in an affray at Oklahoma City two years ago by the Christian brothers, outlaws.

COTTON MILL WAGES.

A New Schedule Put into Effect In Three States.

EFFECT ON PURCHASING POWER.

Rhode Island Operatives Keeping at Work.

Providence, Jan. 17.—The cutdown in the cotton mills throughout the state went into effect today, the only exceptions being one or two small factories, whose owners, for reasons of their own, have not yet decided to cut wages, and a few in which, owing to their paying monthly or for similar reasons, it is not convenient to put the reduction into effect until later.

The reduction will affect to a greater or lesser degree the earnings of nearly 26,000 operatives in this state and those of the Knights and Goddards in Massachusetts. Between 10,000 and 15,000 more employed in Connecticut mills controlled by Providence agents will be affected also. As the aggregate earnings of this army of operatives will approximate $10,000,000 annually, the loss in wages and purchasing power in consequence of the reduction to operatives and business men in the communities in which they spend their money will be nearly a round million, if the cut averages as expected, about 10 percent.

While the reduction will excite nothing more serious than murmurs and discontent among the Rhode Island operatives, they will watch with keen interest the struggle to be inaugurated in New Bedford, the Spinners' union having voted to support the striking New Bedford spinners. That a strike on the part of the mule spinners was averted here was due to the energetic work of Thomas F. Connelly and other members of that union, coupled with an appeal from Secretary Ross of New Bedford to delay action here until the struggle at New Bedford was settled. The strike sentiment was very strong among the spinners, but at the meeting of the union Friday night a strike was voted down by a vote of 17 to 64. About 11,000 operatives will be affected by the cutdown.

ANDROSCOGGIN WEAVERS.

Lewiston, Me., Jan. 17.—The mule spinners and the card grinders have voted to stay in and await orders from the labor leaders; but the weavers of the Androscoggin mill persist in their intentions to remain out. There are 350 of these, and in this mill there will be 1,000 idle looms. It is expected that if the weavers go out the mill must shut down for the present, though Agent Bean will not state whether or not he will secure weavers to take the places of those who remain out. The operatives say that there are not enough weavers enough in the city to supply the places of the strikers.

The strikers say that they have enough money individually to carry them through several months of idleness. They admit that they have no present organization, but say that it will not take much time to perfect one. Some of the weavers will leave the city to await the settlement of the trouble. No other mills in the city are to be affected by the strike except the Androscoggin.

"RESISTANCE THE CRY."

Biddeford, Me., Jan. 17.—A labor war, which promises to be the most bitter ever known in this city, has been inaugurated by the 250 textile workers in the Leporello and Lagoon cotton mills. Mass meetings were held Sunday by the operatives, at least, have been given to understand by their overseers that the new schedule, even under the reduction notice, would give them wages which would be practically no reduction. The operatives who are determined to strike are to meet up these premises with divided views, and it was an open question as to how many of them, in the belief of what has been told them, would attempt to go into the mill's this morning.

In the church some of the ministers alluded to the situation in their positions of trust of grace. Rev. John Steiner, of the North Baptist church, which includes many operatives in its congregation, in his sermon, spoke in justification of the resistance to the reduction, but warned his parishioners to avoid anything which would take from them the sympathy of the people. At the Falmouth Congregational church Rev. W. H. Brothman of New Bedford, who is supplying the pulpit, spoke in a similar vein.

CUTDOWN IN LAWRENCE.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 17.—The chief topic on the street Sunday was that of the cutdown to go into effect at the Pacific and Atlantic mills Jan. 31. The reduction is 10 percent. The Mule Spinners' union, which is the only organized body in the city of textile workers, had a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting Sunday. The situation was discussed, but the proceedings were kept from the press. No vote was taken regarding a strike, but members say that had a vote to strike been taken it would have been carried by a large majority.

GIVE UP THE GHOST.

Pawtucket, Me., Jan. 17.—The mule spinners in the Lakewood mills held a meeting last night and appointed a committee to wait upon Agent Abbott for the purpose of trying to effect a better rate than 15 percent which is the amount of the cut that has been enacted. The spinners claim that in all the other mills of Maine the cut has been 11-1/2 percent.

CUT POSTED SATURDAY.

Saco, Me., Jan. 17.—The reduction of wages in the York mills went into effect this morning. Not until Saturday afternoon were the operatives notified as to the amount of the cut in the scale of wages. It ranges from 10 to 15 percent, and some of the machinists will be cut from $1.50 to $0 per week.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

What infinite care and pride a woman takes in her wedding trousseau. How fine and fit every dainty gown and filmy bit of lingerie be. But how about herself, her own fine and delicate physique? How important of all considerations being neglected? Has she any weakness or ailment which is going to unfit and incapacitate her for happy marriage?

No woman is fit to marry who has any physical condition or physical structure most immediately concerned in wifehood and motherhood. No modest reluctance should prevent her seeking immediate relief from such troubles. There is no need of the mortifying examinations so often made by physicians. Dr. Mott's Favorite Prescription is daily curing thousands of women of these troubles in the privacy of their homes.

The "Favorite Prescription" is the only physically remedy of its kind prepared by an educated, authorized physician.

It is hardly a secret that it will not completely and permanently cure.

Mr. Frank J. Cleary, Dr. Pierce, says: "I can recommend Dr. Mott's Favorite Prescription

to anyone who suffers with any female disease.

When I was 18 years old, I had a toothache, too, very bad before I was married, and now I am a wife person, I am now twenty-three. I have also taken Dr. Mott's Pills, and can recommend them all."

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 17.—A thoughtless boy caused great mischief by applying a match to a spray of oil issuing from a small aperture in the Standard Oil company's pipe line from Sisterville, W. Va., to Morgantown. The pressure at that point was strong. Soon the burning spray melted the lead in the joints of the pipe, which was six inches in diameter. Fifty acres of forest and field were soon ablaze. Two small bridges and two barns were burned. All the oil in 10 miles of six-inch pipe, nearly 2,000 barrels, was consumed. The engineers at Elk Bank discovered something wrong and stopped pumping, else the damage would have been greater.

AN INTERESTING SERMON

Rev. E. M. O'Callaghan of the Church of the Immaculate Conception is one of the most interesting speakers among the local divines and he preached to a large congregation yesterday. His subject was

"Profanity" and his criticisms and advice

regarding the use of profanity made an impression on his hearers and the sermon

was one of the most interesting that he has ever delivered. The Rev. Father talks most understandingly when delivering a sermon and the subject was handled in a thorough manner.

TERRELL'S RELEASE

Dined at the Rockingham and Took

the Train for Boston

Edward A. Terrell of Nashua, who was sentenced to two months confinement in the jail here for contempt of court in con-

nnection with an action under the nuisance

law, completed his term at noon Sunday and was given his freedom. He seemed very glad to be a free man again, and cordi-

cally greeted the small company of friends who met him when he left the jail.

Mr. Terrell was the guest of Dr. W.

H. Lyons at the Rockingham, where he enjoyed a sumptuous dinner. No demonstration was made, or reception held,

however, and after passing the afternoon

pleasantly chatting with friends, Mr. Terrell took the 5 o'clock train for Boston,

from which place he went to his home in Nashua that evening.

In Nashua he was quietly met by a few friends and escorted to his home. Some evening this week he will be banqueted

by his friends.

WITH THE POLICE

A QUIET SUNDAY WITH ONLY ONE SAT-

NIGHT NIGHT DRUNK

Sunday was as quiet and peaceful as one could wish, and Marshal Entwistle

wore a happy, contented smile as he sat

in his private office and chatted with a few of his friends, with the knowledge that everything was as it should be.

Saturday night the lodgers were booked

by the officers and Sunday evening

there were four lodgers. One of the Sunday night lodgers was an old friend of the police named James Casey.

It will be remembered that Casey was the fellow who, it is alleged, assaulted and robbed a man at Newcastle last summer

for which he received a term in jail.

On the day of his release he got drunk and mixed up in a fight at the north end and when pursued by the officers, jumped overboard
